

COLOR MARKINGS

used in the East Asian-Australasian Flyway

Available at <http://www.eaaflyway.net/migratory-waterbirds-in-eaaf/coordination-of-colour-marking/>

EVERY SINGLE RESIGHTING IS IMPORTANT. If you observed a marked bird, please report the following information as much as possible to relevant organizations: species, date, locality (with coordinates), color marks (type, color, and inscription of the marks), photographs, circumstances and other relevant details, etc. Domestic/local banding schemes as well as contact persons in the following tables are best focal points. Your reports will benefit migration studies and identification of key routes and habitats of migratory birds.

Anatidae I (swans)

For more information on color-marked swans in Eurasia, please visit the www.cr-birding.org mainly managed by Dirk Raes.

Please visit the website of 'Yamashina Institute for Ornithology' to read color marking protocols for waterbirds in Japan.

Please visit Wildlife Science and Conservation Center \(WSCC\) of Mongolia's website to learn more about whooper swan marking projects in Mongolia.

For more information on color marking activities by Wildlife Conservation Society (WCS) in Mongolia, please download an information sheet entitled 'Look out for wild birds marked in Mongolia'.

You may also contact with Dr. Pelle Andersen-Harild, the coordinator of the WI Swan Research Group, to consult color and codes used in different countries/areas for Europe and Asia.
